

GEOGRAPHY CURRICULUM MAP

	COURSE Prefix & Number
	GEOG 143	GEOG 151	GEOG 152	GEOG 202	GEOG 240	GEOG 241
THE GEOGRAPHY STUDENT SHALL BE ABLE TO:
1. Employ maps as tools to characterize and analyze distributions of environmental phenomena and patterns of human activities.						R
2. Compare and contrast environmental phenomena across regions, evaluating the opportunities and challenges that environmental conditions present for human activities.
3. Compare and contrast human activities across regions, evaluating the impact of human activities on the natural environment.
4. Visualize current events in location , using internal mental maps to identify their absolute and relative positions on the earth's surface.
5. Contextualize current events in place , using a geographic perspective to organize complexity.
6. Interpret and scrutinize rhetoric that conjectures an imminent "end of geography".
Submitted by: Jeff Arnold
Division: Liberal Arts
Reviewed: 9/22/2015
Status: Accepted						