3a. What was the cutoff point (benchmark) using this tool which would indicate satisfactory performance on the goal/objective or core competency skill assessed? The Success Center set a goal that 80% of the students would strongly agree or agree with each statement on the survey.

4a. What is the analysis/interpretation of these results/trend results?

Analysis of Eng. 101 Writing Survey Results, Overview of Total Data, Fall 2015 & Fall 2014

Goal 5 (Relates to questions 3, 4, 5, 6)

Goal 5. Students will recognize the expectations of higher education.

| Survey Question | Met 80% Benchmark | | | |
|---|-------------------|------------|------------|------------|
| | Fall 2014 | | Fall 2015 | |
| | Yes | No | Yes | No |
| 3. Working with a tutor enhanced my understanding of how to cite source material within the paper and on a Works Cited page. | | X (71%) | | X (57%) |
| 4. Reviewing my paper with a tutor enabled me to further develop the draft content and quality of ideas. | X (86%) | | | X (79%) |
| 5. Discussing my paper with a tutor helped me to recognize patterns of errors in my writing and develop strategies to correct them. | X (88%) | | X (87%) | |
| 6. Attending tutoring sessions at the Success Center made me more successful in completing my assignments for the class. | X (81%) | | | X (66%) |

Analysis/Interpretation:

Question 3 did not meet the benchmark either year which may relate to the fact that not all papers needed source material due to different instructor assignments. Also, tutors saw some drafts which were incomplete and did not have source information yet, which would mean less discussion of those issues in the tutoring session. Additionally, students may feel they already understand MLA citation style and do not need help. This seems to be indicated by a high percentage of students who chose 3 (neutral) on the survey.

The change in question 6 results from Fall 14 to Fall 15 can be attributed to adding a second instructor in the survey with different assignment types and guidelines. Also, the first instructor required or highly recommended that students come in for a paper review while the second instructor offered extra credit to students who chose to have a tutor review their drafts. This might lead to different interpretations by students regarding how much tutoring sessions affected their ability to be successful in completing assignments for their particular class.

Goal 6. (Relates to questions 2, 3, 5)

Goal 6. Students will apply appropriate learning tools to meet their course requirements.

| Survey Question | Met 80% Benchmark | | | |
|--|-------------------|------------|------------|------------|
| | Fall 2014 | | Fall 2015 | |
| | Yes | No | Yes | No |
| 2. Working with a tutor enhanced my understanding of audience awareness (i.e., need for a strong thesis, a clear organizational pattern, etc.) | X (82%) | | | X (72%) |
| 3. Working with a tutor enhanced my understanding of how to cite source material within the paper and on a Works Cited page. | | X (71%) | | X (57%) |
| 5. Discussing my paper with a tutor helped me to recognize patterns of errors in my writing and develop strategies to correct them. | X (88%) | | X (87%) | |

Analysis/Interpretation:

Since question 2 deals with audience awareness and specifically references concepts such as thesis and organizational patterns, student responses may have been affected by how the individual instructors presented this type of information in class or the students' general understanding of the terms.

Question 5 responses were the highest and most consistent in both Fall 2014 and Fall 2015, which strongly indicates that students benefit from working with a tutor to reassess the strengths and weaknesses of their drafts. Tutors help students identify error types and provide helpful handouts to further explain grammar issues. In addition, all students are given an English Paper Checklist to summarize the tutor's assessment of their strengths and weaknesses and recommendations for revising the draft, including suggestions for better audience awareness. This ties in with the Success Center's mission to "supplement and enhance classroom instruction by assisting students in developing the skills and strategies they need to become confident, independent, and active learners."

Goal 9. (Relates to questions 1, 4, 5)

| Goal 9. Students will be able to plan, monitor, and evaluate their own learning processes and use appropriate study strategies to adjust accordingly. | | | | |
|--|--------------------------|------------|------------------|------------|
| Survey Question | Met 80% Benchmark | | | |

| | Yes | No | Yes | No |
| 1. Working with a tutor gave me more confidence in my ability to write an academic essay. | | X (79%) | | X (77%) |

| 5. Discussing my paper with a tutor helped me to recognize patterns of errors in my writing and develop strategies to correct them. | X (88%) | | X (87%) | |

Analysis/Interpretation:

Overall, working with a tutor encourages students to evaluate their writing process and helps students apply revision strategies to improve their drafts. The benchmark was met on one question and there was an upward trend or near benchmark performance on the other two questions which indicates to the Success Center staff that one-on-one writing tutoring is effective in helping students evaluate and adjust their writing processes to be more successful.

| 6. Attending tutoring sessions at the Success Center made me more successful in completing my assignments for the class. | X (81%) | | | X (66%) |

Analysis/Interpretation:

Survey questions connect directly to SWIC Writing Assessment Rubric (attached) which has four main sections: The writing connects with the audience through quality of thought, purposeful structure, appropriate style/expression, and appropriate conventions. Questions 2, 4, and 5 deal with specific components of clear writing that are developed with a specific audience, i.e., strong thesis, clear organizational patterns, developing content and quality of ideas, recognizing and revising patterns of errors. On the whole, the survey indicates that we are fulfilling our mission statement and having a positive impact on student learning in the writing area. Questions 4 and 5 were near (79%) the benchmark or exceeded it, and they relate to core concepts that tutors assist students with when reviewing papers.

General Summary

The Success Center staff learned much from the writing survey. As shown in in the previous charts, there is a decrease in “strongly agree/agree” responses for several of the Fall 15 survey questions, resulting in scores below the benchmark of 80% for five of the six questions. These changes could be attributed to several factors:

- In Fall 15 a second instructor was introduced who had a different assignment type and expectations. Results were more consistent when comparing Fall 14 and Fall 15 for one instructor.
- The number of students participating was significantly smaller in Fall 15.
- Not all papers needed source material due to different instructor assignments, and some students may feel they already understand MLA citation style and do not need additional help. This seems to be indicated by a high percentage of students who chose 3 (neutral) on the survey.
- Differences in the instructors’ policies and expectations (requiring students to bring a paper in for review versus offering extra credit to students) appears to affect how students perceive the impact of the tutoring sessions on their ability to successfully complete the assignments for the class.

Student Comments from the Survey (Questions 7 and 9)

The following are student comments from the survey identifying student learning from the student perspective:

Overview of Success Center OA Student Writing Survey

The Success Center created a student survey to gauge the impact of tutoring on students' ability to understand the expectations of academic writing, such as using citations correctly to avoid plagiarism and developing drafts with effective audience awareness. The survey also assessed how discussing their draft with a tutor helped students develop ideas, recognize and revise patterns of errors, and build confidence in their ability to write an academic essay.

Survey questions connect directly to SWIC Writing Assessment Rubric which has four main sections: The writing connects with the audience through quality of thought, purposeful structure, appropriate style/expression, and appropriate conventions. Survey questions 2, 4, and 5 deal with specific components of clear writing that are developed with a specific audience, i.e., strong thesis, clear organizational patterns, developing content and quality of ideas, recognizing and revising patterns of errors.

The survey also ties in with specific course objectives of Eng. 101:

Course Description:

English 101 is designed to help students establish their own voices as they gain rhetorical awareness and flexibility. This course reinforces the collaborative, recursive nature of the writing process and emphasizes the use of strategies to compose texts that effectively address various purposes, audiences, and contexts. The course requires students to reflect on their own writing, as well as peer and professional texts and also provides a brief introduction to the writing of source-supported papers and methods of documenting sources.

Course Objectives:

(Primary) Presentation

- Achieve rhetorical purpose to meet readers' needs, expectations, and contextual constraints;
- Proofread and correct their revised text;
- Employ appropriate format and citation conventions.

(Primary) Arrangement

- Construct texts around a central controlling idea;
- Support a main idea with concrete and worthwhile details, examples and reasons;
- Develop an organizing principle that supports rhetorical purpose;

Summary/Analysis

The Success Center staff learned much from the writing survey. Overall, the survey results confirm that we are fulfilling our mission statement and are having a positive impact on student learning in the writing area. Questions 4 and 5 were near (79%) the benchmark of 80% or exceeded it, and they relate to core concepts that tutors assist students with when reviewing papers.

Although the staff noticed a decrease in “strongly agree/agree” responses in several of the survey questions in the Fall 2015 survey which caused some to not meet the benchmark of 80%, this was attributed to several factors:

- In Fall 2015 a second instructor was introduced who had a different assignment type and expectations. Results were more consistent when comparing Fall 2014 and Fall 2015 for one instructor.
- The number of students participating was significantly smaller in Fall 2015.
- Not all papers needed source material due to different instructor assignments, and some students may feel they already understand MLA citation style and do not need additional help. This seems to be indicated by a high percentage of students who chose 3 (neutral) on the survey.
- Differences in the instructors’ policies and expectations (requiring students to bring a paper in for review versus offering extra credit to students) appears to affect how students perceive the impact of the tutoring sessions on their ability to successfully complete the assignments for the class.

These results also reveal the challenges for co-curricular student learning since we are outside of the classroom environment and are not able to control for differences in instruction and classroom processes.

Tutor Training Improvements:

As a result of the survey, the Success Center English/Liberal Arts area has focused on improving the training for tutors in the following ways:

- Tutors are encouraged to discuss higher order concerns of writing (thesis, purpose, development, organization, etc.).
- Tutors are reminded to supplement their tutoring with specific handouts to guide students.
- Tutors are directed to provide detailed comments on the English Paper Checklist to ensure that students leave with the necessary feedback to assist in revisions.
- Tutors are mentored and provided with sample papers to help them practice effective writing tutoring.
- Tutors are trained to review assignment details with students and set goals based on the individual student’s concerns.

Anecdotal evidence based on comments from the instructors involved in the survey indicates that tutors are successful in accomplishing these goals in their sessions with students.

Blitz Survey Changes:

The Blitz Student Satisfaction Survey is given over a two week period every semester district wide. In the Fall 2015 semester, specific questions related to the Success Center’s Student Goals were added as another method of assessing student learning, including goal 5 and goal 6. The results from the survey are shown below with the related goal:

5. As a result of my experiences in the Success Center, I better understand the expectations of higher education.

87.6% answered Agree/Strongly Agree

6. As a result of working with tutor(s), I better understand how to use appropriate learning tools and strategies to meet course requirements.

86.4% answered Agree/Strongly Agree

Other Changes: Students enrolled in online sections often use the SWIC Online Writing Lab (OWL) to submit papers for these classes and receive feedback on their drafts from tutors. We have not surveyed these students to identify how online tutoring of their writing impacts student learning, but hope to develop a tool for this purpose for a future assessment.

Note: Attach relevant summary of data, rubric, or assessment tool.
